

INCOME TAX IS A TERRIBLE IDEA FOR ALASKA.

Only seven states currently do not have income taxes, and it is incredible that Alaska is one of them. Alaskans repealed the income tax back in 1980, and now is not the time to bring it back.

Just this past December 2019, Governor Dunleavy provided a state government budget that was incredibly close to being balanced. By reducing state spending by only 500 million dollars, we can have a balanced budget, and we can do that right now, without instituting an income tax.
