Brief Summary and Statement of Need:

This project would allow the Department of Natural Resources to pursue additional research, in-depth field work and, as necessary, litigation to secure upland access to natural resources and for the public. This effort critically assists in fulfilling the state constitutional mandate to make resources “available for maximum use consistent with the public interest.” RS 2477 investigation and confirmation is managed by the Public Access Assertion and Defense (PAAD) Unit within the DNR Division of Mining, Land and Water. RS 2477s are a distinct category of responsibility from the navigability work that the Unit pursues.

Prior Funding History / Additional Information:

An operating amount of $695K UGF was also put forward in an April 1 amendment and is necessary for the daily/routine work that needs to take place for both Navigability and RS 2477s.

Project Description/Justification:

Historically, federal law provided that public use crossing federal land established permanent rights-of-way that the public could continue to use in these areas. While the federal law allowing for the creation of these rights-of-way was repealed decades ago, the rights in place at the time remain in place for the public to use permanently. Many RS 2477 routes underlie highways and popular trails throughout the State that have long histories of use. There may also be historical use creating RS 2477 rights in more remote areas of the State. RS 2477s must be identified by research into their historical use, verified with labor intensive on-the-ground investigation, and, as necessary, asserted in litigation when the land owner (often the federal government) denies that their property is encumbered by such a route.
