

↪ Reply

Lance Roberts ⌚ 5 years ago

Minimum wage is just a way to redistribute money from those on a fixed income to those in the workforce. First, the minimum wage recipients get more $, then some prices increase, then eventually all wages rise and all prices increase. So it's $-neutral (though not job neutral), BUT those on a fixed income don't get an increase, they just get the higher prices. It's ultimately theft and a breaking of God's law.

↪ Reply