The Proverbs 31 woman is not the 1950s housewife or a Victorian-era maiden.

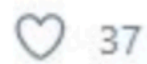

She's industrious.

She invests & manages property.

She oversees finance.

Her mouth is full of wisdom.

She runs a tight household & is the force behind its economy.

And she clearly "works outside the home". But that doesn't mean she hands her six week old infant over to the daycare or grandma so she can go back to work. Raise your own small children. Then maybe go back to work.

No, she works for the family business (prov 31), not slaving herself out to another man. Even after the kids are grown.
